
SPECIFICATION

Please amend the application as follows:

Page 14, after the first paragraph, add the following new paragraph:

In the context of the present invention the term "list" in expressions "lists of resources," "lists of information objects," and the like, is understood broadly, as any organized visual representation of a set of information objects, the set consisting of one or more information objects, through which representation the user can view the set of information objects, select an information object or information objects, and perform a predetermined action with said information object or information objects.